

An Industry Has Developed That You May Never Have Heard Of...

Eved Services Is More Than Anyone Could Ask For

January 23, 2008

Talia Mashiach is the co-founder of Eved Services, an in-hotel destination management event services company. One of the most unique things about this company is that it actually works in-house within top Chicago hotels to eliminate the need for clients to search elsewhere for an event service or destination management company.

Eved Services' business structure is unique in itself and often sets it apart from other events companies. In the events industry, the most widely-used services are event planning/services and destination management. While both services are in the business of events, there is a huge distinction between the two. Event service providers or event planners are typically settled around social functions, like fundraisers or weddings. Destination management companies primarily focus on large-scale events, like corporate gatherings or meetings spanning from a few hours to a few days. Because Eved Services has both events and destination management services, it can accommodate events of all scales.

Today, under Mashiach's leadership, Eved Services posted revenues of $4 million in its first full year and reached over $8.5 million by its third year with 3 straight years of consecutive profits. Eved Services now contracts with over 35 hotels and serves the event needs of over 4000 clients a year, including over half the companies on the Fortune 500.
